Internship Job Description

Contact: Dr. Amanda Long – dr.amandalong@atruespace.com
Website: atruespace.com

Description of Site:

True Space Counseling and Psychological Services is a private group practice that specializes in addressing the mental health concerns of women, with a specialty in serving women who self-identify as BIPOC. Services offered include: Individual, group, couples, family therapy, processing and psychoeducation groups, and community outreach programming. True Space is located in Olympia Fields, and provides services to a diverse population of individuals and families from Chicago and the surrounding areas. Students have the option of conducting telehealth or in-person sessions.

True Space is looking for an innovative and purpose driven student to join our team as a practicum or internship trainee. The selected applicant will practice under the supervision of a licensed psychologist, while receiving valuable experience treating diverse clients in an insurance-based and private fee setting.

This position is ideal for students pursuing advanced-level (internship) clinical hours, however, True Space will consider motivated practicum students as well.

Internship Requirements and Responsibilities:

- Conduct intakes and weekly individual psychotherapy with adults, couples, and families (depending on your training opportunities to service adolescents and children are available)
- Diagnosis and development of comprehensive treatment plans
- Maintaining clinical records and completing documentation in a timely manner in keeping with professional standards of care
- Attend and actively participate in weekly supervision to consult regarding clients and clinical concerns
- Development and implementation of one 30-minute webinar on a topic of choice or development of alternative programming (i.e., psychotherapy group, Instagram or Facebook Live seminar, community outreach)

What we provide:

- Flexible schedule (10 hour minimum)
- Advertisement on various therapy platforms (i.e., therapyforblackgirls.com, psychologytoday.com, and goodtherapy.com)
- The opportunity to be part of an exciting, growing, and highly impactful private practice
